1. INTRODUCTION

1.01 This specification covers the cording for equipped A-type handset mountings, B-type hand telephone sets and 102, 103, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, and 215-types of hand telephone sets.

2. GENERAL

2.01 The drawings attached hereto are intended to show only the mechanical arrangement of the cords within the handset mounting so as to obtain correct anchorage and to avoid interference with plunger operating details, plunger springs or dial springs, and to eliminate the possibility of pinching the conductors between the base and the base plate when these parts are assembled. These drawings show the cording of typical sets, and illustrate principles to be followed in the case of similar sets, or when cords having different free length of conductors are used which may necessitate rearranging the position of the cord tips connected to the same terminal or different stowing of the conductors. For connections, refer to connection specifications in the BSRS 353. series.

2.02 Care should be exercised in connecting conductors to terminal "R" of the 4- and 5-type dials and terminal "W" of the 6-type dials to be certain that the cord tips do not come into contact with the adjacent dial mounting screws or the flange of the handset mounting.

3. CORDING

Manual Hand Telephone Sets

3.01 Manual sets are corded as shown in the following drawings: ESO-738642 to ESO-738646 inclusive and the left-hand figure of ESO-738647 (see Index).

Dial Hand Telephone Sets

3.02 Sets having a 4- or 5-type single contact dial are corded as shown in the following drawings: ESO-738648 to ESO-738652 inclusive, ESO-739211, BL-215933, B-901035, and the right hand figure of ESO-738647 (see Index).

3.03 Typical dial cording for sets having 4- and 5-type twin contact dials is shown on drawing B-767733 and for sets having 6-type dials on drawing B-767734. On these sets the remainder of the cording is similar to that shown on applicable drawings specified in 3.02.
